

The Antitrust Damages Directive: Four Years On

Related Lawyers: Laurent Geelhand, Anna Morfey

Related Practice Areas: Competition Litigation

Since the adoption of the Damages Directive in Portugal in June 2018, all 28 European Union member states have now placed the directive into their national law. Global Competition Review investigate whether the directive has started to bear fruit, or if we need to wait a little longer?

Hausfeld partners Laurent Geelhand and Anna Morfey are both extensively quoted throughout offering their perspective on the directive's impact four years on.

Read the full article here